

AVOIDING (and winning) LAWSUITS, BOARD MATTERS, and PEER REVIEW

If a physician receives a letter threatening legal action, about half of those letters result in a lawsuit. And for some physicians, Texas Medical Board (TMB) matters or peer review actions can be even more burdensome.

In this seminar, attorney T. Marc Calvert will review case examples that illustrate what you can do to minimize these risks and increase your chances of success in the event of a lawsuit, board action, or complaint.

November 1 – Renaissance Hotel – Austin
November 2 – Renaissance Hotel – Dallas
November 28 – Marriott at the Medical Center – Houston
December 6 – Marriott Northwest – San Antonio

Objectives:

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

- describe the lawsuit process for medical negligence and discuss strategies to mount an effective defense;
- identify ways to maximize success in TMB matters;
- explain the various aspects of peer review; and
- summarize approaches that minimize medical liability claims, TMB complaints, and other reviews of care.
